(By United Press)

Washington, June 17. — Senator LaFollette's condition has taken a turn for the worse, his doctors announced today. They said, however, he was holding his own and they had every hope of his ultimate recovery.

LaFollette has been suffering from bronchial asthma and complications for more than a week. Prior to this his vitality was weakened by a cold.

His health was undermined by repeated attacks of pneumonia last year and two years ago.

A statement issued by Robert LaFollette, Jr., at his home today said, "Senator LaFollette's physician said today that although his condition was somewhat more serious than before, he was holding his own and that they have every hope for his ultimate recovery."

The fact that Bob LaFollette issued a statement at all was regarded as signifying the senator's condition was grave despite his tone of optimism.

GILDA GRAY WINS CUSTODY OF HER 11-YEAR-OLD SON

St. Paul, June 17.—Gilda Gray was awarded custody of her 11-year-old son, according to a dispatch from Milwaukee.

"Yes," she said, "I'm happier than I was when I heard of my movie contract."

Miss Gray and the father of her son were divorced two years ago in Milwaukee. The man, John Gorecki, sought custody of the boy.

Before her marriage to Mr. Gorecki, the famous shimmy dancer was Marianna Michaelski, a Polish immigrant girl. She is now the wife of Gil Boag, millionaire restaurant owner of New York.

CLAIM SHEPHERD "HAD GUILTY KNOWLEDGE"

WITNESSES TESTIFY SHEPHERD SAID HIS WARD KNEW HE HAD TYPHOID

EVEN BEFORE PHYSICIANS DIAGNOSED IT AS SUCH

(By United Press)

Criminal Court, Chicago, June 17. —From the testimony of three witnesses the state today attempted to prove that William D. Shepherd "had guilty knowledge" of Billy McClintock's fatal illness. Shepherd is on trial accused of murdering young McClintock by feeding him typhoid germs.

Each of the witnesses testified that Shepherd made statements to the effect that Billy knew he had typhoid fever even before his physicians diagnosed his case as such.

"It is one of the strongest links in our circumstantial case against Shepherd," State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe told the United Press. "This man had a guilty conscience. He had given him typhoid germs and then had given him castor oil so the germs could do their work. The fact that Shepherd quoted Billy as saying he thought he had typhoid fever even before doctors were called in showed he was guilty."

Elbert Allen, a court reporter, identified notes which he took when Shepherd was first questioned by Crowe in regard to the case. The notes showed that Shepherd said, "Billy came home on Sunday afternoon complaining he was ill. He said he thought he had typhoid fever."

Two witnesses had preceded Allen on the witness stand with testimony of a similar nature.

Crowe was driving the final spikes in his case today, hoping to complete his evidence this afternoon with the testimony of Dr. C. C. Faiman who confessed giving Shepherd typhoid germs for the purpose of killing young McClintock.

Court recessed until 2 p. m. Dr. Faiman was waiting in the witness room in custody of two officers ready to take the stand sometime later in the day.

T. B. IS ON THE DECLINE IN U. S. SAYS SPECIALIST

DR. CHARLES J. HATFIELD, PHILADELPHIA, MAKES ADDRESS

IS PRESIDENT OF NATIONAL TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, June 17.—Tuberculosis is on the decline in the United States, according to an opinion expressed today by Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, Philadelphia, president, speaking before the National Tuberculosis association meeting here.

"Although the complete returns from the census for the registration area are not yet available," Dr. Hatfield said, "our statisticians are confident that the mortality rate from tuberculosis in all forms will show again a marked decline."

Reasons for the apparent decline are not yet fully understood, he said.

"The writers who attributed the decrease in 1921 to the influenza epidemic on the ground that many cases of tuberculosis were swept away and who predicted that after a few years the mortality rate for tuberculosis would rise again are quite at sea. It seems impossible that the influenza epidemic six years ago should still be a factor this late day."

Dr. Hatfield expressed the opinion that better understanding of health measures and the consequent improvement in the community of personal hygiene probably are the largest contributing factors.

MAC MILLAN-NAVY EXPEDITION SETS OUT FOR ARCTIC REGIONS

DETERMINED TO FIND IF "LOST CONTINENT" EXISTS

(By United Press)

Boston, June 17.—The S. S. Peary, planeship of the MacMillan Arctic expedition, sailed from the Charleston navy yard at 12:15 p.m. today on the first leg of the northern journey.

By FOSTER EATON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Boston, June 17.—Bound for the top of the world, the MacMillan-Navy expedition set out today from this port for the Arctic regions, determined to find out if a "lost continent" exists in the 1,000,000 square miles of unexplored territory between Alaska and the North Pole.

Two-score mariners of the sea and the air, headed by Lt. Commander Donald B. MacMillan, already famous for his Arctic researches and explorations, are invading the land of the midnight sun, icebergs, a frozen Sahara, and mountains capped with eternal ice.

Aided by the latest genii—radia and the airplane—the explorers are pitting their lives against the last unconquered domain of Nature, in a battle waged on behalf of science.

From Etah, Greenland, which the explorers will reach about August 1, navy fliers will take MacMillan and his scientists in three flights over the unexplored polar regions to claim the "continent" for the United States, for possible use in the future as a way-station for an airline route from Asia to Alaska.

Flights also will be made over the interior of upper Greenland, a frozen waste uncharted by man. Fridtjof Nansen in 1888 crossed the island from east to west at the northern point, but did not report on the general character of the country. The settlements in lower Greenland, of the Vikings, the Norsemen who came to what is now Massachusetts nearly 500 years before Columbus' lookout shouted "Land Ho!" off the island of Salvador in the West Indies, will be explored. The interior of Ellesmere Island, second "farthest north" of all known lands; Labrador and Baffin Island, 200,000 square miles in extent, will be searched out and surveyed by airplane.

Discover New Lands

In Baffin Land, MacMillan expects to discover an extensive lake country, abounding in a rich animal, bird and fish life, with possible species unknown to man. Nomad Eskimos have reported to him strange sights from this wild country of jagged mountains and deep valleys, on which these expectations are based.

From Etah, radio station WNP, established by the expedition, will flash to the world the news of the history-making journeys.

The expedition is fitted out for all emergencies as no polar searching party has ever been outfitted. Two ships will convey the party to its general headquarters at Etah, 700 miles

21 MILES PAVING AND SEVERAL BRIDGE CONTRACTS LET

(By United Press)

St. Paul, June 17.—Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, made public apparently low figures on bids opened yesterday on the second 1925 list of projected highway improvements.

The proposals cover 66 miles of new grading, 36 miles of graveling, 21 miles of paving and several bridges which will cost approximately $1,000,000 or nearly 33⅓ per cent below preliminary figures estimated.

After bids tabulated have been rechecked contract awards will follow and it is expected work will start at an early date.

Following is a partial list of apparently low bids and various concerns making them:

Highway No. 27, Belle Prairie to Brainerd, 24.7 miles: Division A, $19,746 by Peterson & Son, Little Falls; Division B, $23,584 by Henry Nelson, Chokio; Division C, $30,311 by Nelson, Mullen & Nelson, Minneapolis; also 60 foot bridge and special culvert at $14,870 by Minneapolis Bridge Co.

Highway No. 37, Little Falls to Randall, 10 miles at $13,499 by Frank Zell, Savage.

Bids are to be opened by Commissioner Babcock on June 30 on the third lot of 1925 trunk highway construction projects comprising 67 miles of grading, 26 miles of graveling and 11 miles of paving estimated at $981,000 as previously announced.

All state trunk highway maintenance and construction operations are being financed with proceeds of motor vehicle and gasoline taxes.

Professor Herbert Freundlich of the Kaiser Wilhelm institute Berlin, Germany, one of the world authorities on colloids will be one of the principal lecturers.

Special courses in chemistry at the first summer session at the University will be open to the delegates to the meeting, according to an announcement today by Dr. F. J. Kelly, director.

It deals with matter in a state which lies between substances as we ordinarily find them and the condition of true molecular dispersion, such as we have in solutions and in mixtures of gases."

Minneapolis Fishermen Quartet Capsize in Their Boat on Fox Lake

ALL FISHING TACKLE LOST

Owner of Allen's "Maypuck Lodge" Rows Out to Gather in the Remains

Local fishermen returning last night from Fox lake, tell of the exciting time four Minneapolis men had there on Sunday in landing a big fish.

These men were stopping at Allen's "Maypuck Lodge" on their first fishing trip of the season. They went out to them immediately, calling to ing, and several hours later Mr. Allen noticed that their boat had capsized in deep water, and all four men seemed to be struggling for their lives.

The proprietor of the lodge rowed out to the mimmediately, calling to them to try to hang to the boat until he could reach them. But when he got closer he was astonished to find that the men, instead of trying to save themselves, were keeping each other from righting the overturned boat, and were having the time of their lives.

It developed that while fishing a big fish was hooked, and all hands tried to assist in landing it. In the scramble the boat was overturned, and because all four men were expert swimmers, they took advantage of the opportunity to turn the accident into a lark. Mr. Allen waited on the side lines until they tired of their sport, then took them back to shore. The boat and oars were rescued, but all of the fishing tackle was lost, and the big fish got away, the only tragedy connected with the incident.

Johnny Hines Deserving of His Tremendous Popularity

Gradually and as surely as the night follows the day Johnny Hines, whose latest effort, "The Cracker Jack," showing at the New Park tonight and Thursday, is becoming one of the most consistently popular screen comedians of this era. Johnny's pictures appear on the local screens about four times each year, but so markedly humorous and exciting are his characterizations that their impress is felt for perhaps a longer period of time than that of many other screen luminaries whose productions are seen in greater volume.

Humor Amid Hardship in "The Prairie Wife"

A picture in which humor is stressed, but in which hardship and struggle is the underlying theme, is "The Prairie Wife," which is now showing at the Lyceum theatre.

It is an adaptation of Arthur Stringer's novel of that title, and shows the struggles of a cultured society girl who marries a young westerner. Her husband owns a homestead on the middle-western prairies, and his young wife takes up her life in this desolate country.

The struggles of the young couple to make a farm of the barren land is depicted with mixtures of quiet drama and delicate humor. The prairie fire—the mysterious laborer—the strange neighbors—the baby who finally comes to both burden and lighten the household—these are the high points in this unusual film.

A fight that would seem destined to live as a classic among filmed encounters is one of the high-lights in "Baree, Son of Kazan," the James Oliver Curwood story whose pictured adaptation comes to the Lyceum theatre tomorrow to remain 2 days.

Nepeese (Anita Stewart) is surprised in her father's cabin by McTaggart (Jack Curtiss), the unscrupulous post factor, and he is in the act of embracing the girl when Nepeese's father, Pierrot (Joseph Rickson), suddenly appears in the doorway. Pierrot attacks McTaggart and the liveliest mixup ever filmed follows.

Rushworth Encampment Goes to Ironton on Saturday

CANDIDATES INITIATED

Delegations Coming From Aitkin, Pine River, Backus, Walker, Etc.

Rushworth Encampment will make a pilgrimage, by special dispensation, to Ironton on Saturday evening, June 20th, where a large class of candidates is to be initiated.

Odd Fellow lodges of Crosby, Ironton, Brainerd, Aitkin, Pine River, Backus, Walker, Deerwood, Hubbard and Motley will be represented by large delegations.

The initiatory work will be exemplified by officers from the grand encampment, headed by Grand Chief Patriarch Lundeen, of Minneapolis, just elected to that post at the annual meeting of the grand encampment last week.

Following the initiation a short program will be rendered, and the evening will close with refreshments. Odd Fellowism is gaining rapidly on the Cuyuna range, Ironton alone boasting nearly 50 members of Rushworth Encampment of Brainerd. It is for this reason that Saturday's festivities are to be held in that village.

OMAHA JURY HOLDS 'PINT OF LIQUOR' LAW TOO SEVERE

Omaha, Neb., June 17.—The first criminal trial under Nebraska's new "pint of liquor" law was won by the defendant when a district court jury freed Vasile Horopa on charges of bootlegging.

The new law provides that possession of more than one pint of illicit liquor is prima facie evidence that its possessor is a bootlegger and carries a penalty of $100 fine and a jail sentence of 60 to 90 days for the first offense.

Taropa was charged with carrying a quart and three ounces of moonshine liquor which he admitted he had purchased at a party.

The jury foreman said the jurymen believed the law unreasonable and did not believe it just to impose fine and jail sentence "just because he happened to be carrying liquor." The defendant's attorney classed the law "fanatical," while the state maintained that the law whether good or bad, should be enforced.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMEN OF 1925

VACATION CLOTHES

By HEDDA HOYT
(Fashion Editor of the United Press)
(Written for the United Press)

New York, June 17. — Vacation days have suddenly pounced upon us. Most of us are packing our furs in camphor and wondering what on earth we'll buy to replace them. The type of clothes one takes on a vacation depends entirely upon where one goes. Those who go with wardrobe trunks to smort resorts need no assistance.

The business girl who packs a suitcase and goes to a nearby resort is the one who requires careful selection of suitable garments. It is better to take a few well chosen clothes than to take the entire leavings of last season's wardrobe, together with hastily selected summer frocks Usually we make the mistake of taking too many dressy frocks. A vacation is a place to rest and one shouldn't attempt to be a fashion-plate, but to be comfortable and prepared for every occasion.

For the seashore we'd suggest a flannel skirt and sweater for cool days. A two-piece jumper frock of silk or wash material; two simple wash frocks of one-piece type; an organdy or lace frock in pastel shade for the hotel dance; a sport coat or cape; a dark silk frock and a bathing suit. One should take at least two pairs of comfortable shoes, besides dancing slippers. One pair is white. Canvas is more sensible than kid. Tan oxfords or tennis shoes are best for walking on the sands and either choice may be worn with the above mentioned frocks, since smart shoes are not essential on the beach.

For the mountain resort one prepares a similar wardrobe, except that one includes a suit or heavy coat for chilly nights. Knickers always come in very handy and of course, mannish shirts go with them. If one does much hiking over mountain roads a pair of high laced boots act as a support to the ankles. Sweaters and skirts are the most popular clothes for mountain resorts, although one must also be prepared for warm days and must not omit a few wash frocks.

Everybody Worked But Father

"Father's stomach trouble seemed to be getting worse all the time and finally he had to quit work altogether. Two brothers and myself gave up school and went to work to support the family. Father had lost sixty pounds in weight and was yellow as saffron and no medicine helped him. Telling a friend about it six months ago, she advised taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I got a bottle and it helped father at once. He was able to go back to work a month later, has regained his weight and strength and eats like a wood chopper." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMEN OF 1925

VACATION CLOTHES

By HEDDA HOYT
(Fashion Editor of the United Press)
(Written for the United Press)

New York, June 17. — Vacation days have suddenly pounced upon us. Most of us are packing our furs in camphor and wondering what on earth we'll buy to replace them. The type of clothes one takes on a vacation depends entirely upon where one goes. Those who go with wardrobe trunks to smort resorts need no assistance.

The business girl who packs a suitcase and goes to a nearby resort is the one who requires careful selection of suitable garments. It is better to take a few well chosen clothes than to take the entire leavings of last season's wardrobe, together with hastily selected summer frocks Usually we make the mistake of taking too many dressy frocks. A vacation is a place to rest and one shouldn't attempt to be a fashion-plate, but to be comfortable and prepared for every occasion.

For the seashore we'd suggest a flannel skirt and sweater for cool days. A two-piece jumper frock of silk or wash material; two simple wash frocks of one-piece type; an organdy or lace frock in pastel shade for the hotel dance; a sport coat or cape; a dark silk frock and a bathing suit. One should take at least two pairs of comfortable shoes, besides dancing slippers. One pair is white. Canvas is more sensible than kid. Tan oxfords or tennis shoes are best for walking on the sands and either choice may be worn with the above mentioned frocks, since smart shoes are not essential on the beach.

For the mountain resort one prepares a similar wardrobe, except that one includes a suit or heavy coat for chilly nights. Knickers always come in very handy and of course, mannish shirts go with them. If one does much hiking over mountain roads a pair of high laced boots act as a support to the ankles. Sweaters and skirts are the most popular clothes for mountain resorts, although one must also be prepared for warm days and must not omit a few wash frocks.

Everybody Worked But Father

"Father's stomach trouble seemed to be getting worse all the time and finally he had to quit work altogether. Two brothers and myself gave up school and went to work to support the family. Father had lost sixty pounds in weight and was yellow as saffron and no medicine helped him. Telling a friend about it six months ago, she advised taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I got a bottle and it helped father at once. He was able to go back to work a month later, has regained his weight and strength and eats like a wood chopper." THE NEW STATE MOTOR CODE

MOTORISTS would do well to study the new state regulations which took effect lately. Changes have been made in the regulations as regards the operation of cars and every motorist should be familiar with them.

We have already called attention to them, but in spite of the promulgation of the new law and the publicity given, some motorists travel about unfettered by a single retarding clause.

It is an offense of serious nature for a motorist not to stop 10 feet behind a street car that has stopped or that "is about to stop" in places where there is not a safety zone.

Persons under 16 are not allowed to drive a car unless accompanied by a licensed chauffeur or the owner.

There are new and heavier penalties for driving a car while intoxicated.

In passing a horse driven by a woman, child or aged person, the motorist must slow down to 15 miles an hour or stop if the animal is frightened.

You are not allowed to pass another car at a turn. This, in the past, was always a dangerous practice and sane driving can never sanction such a careless practice.

You are not allowed to park on paved highways outside city limits. If you have a blow out, get off the pavement to make the repairs. Common sense alone ought to teach a driver that taking up half the pavement for repairs, blocks the highway and invites accidents.

You are guilty of a gross misdemeanor if you play the "hit and run" game and try to escape after an accident.

Speed limits are set at 15 miles an hour in congested traffic districts, 20 miles an hour in residential districts and 35 miles an hour in the open country. These are maximum speeds, subject all to common sense rules of driving.

The motorist arrested by a country magistrate is entitled to an immediate hearing.

LOVE OF FLOWERS

THE love of flowers is evidence of a contented spirit, one that glorifies nature. The philosophy linked with the cultivation of flowers is most ably explained in an article, "France Re-Visited," by Albert Shaw in the "Review of Reviews."

The article in question explains the principal object and purpose of the Minnesota Garden Flower society. The same thought inspired the two flower shows held in Brainerd last year by our local Garden Flower society.

"There is hardly any greater evidence of the poise and stability of European life than the practice of flower gardening.

"People who love flowers so greatly, and who find such joy in surrounding their humble homes with gayly blossoming plants cannot be regarded as degenerate, in any sense.

"In comparatively close built cities and towns, not only are houses along the streets made cheerful and gay by window boxes full of flowers, but where there are even a few square yards of ground adjacent to buildings, one finds the little spaces well planted with flowers in excellent variety.

"Furthermore in such towns it is not uncommon to discover in central squares or public gardens, a brilliant floral display that could not be found anywhere in the United States under similar circumstances.

"There are few lessons that Europe can teach America that are better worth while than that of cultivating the art of living, and the spirit of contentment in the presence of things that are beautiful rather than expensive."

TWO FISHING SEASONS

THE last legislature ran a dividing line through Minnesota and established two fishing seasons, one for southern Minnesota opening May 29 and one for northern Minnesota opening Sunday, June 21, covering the catching of black bass, crappies and sunfish.

Beginning Sunday, June 21, and lasting until February 1, 1926, the section north of a line extending across the state from Cambridge on the east, through Princeton and St. Cloud to Morris on the west, will be open. The part of the state south of the line has been open for black bass, crappies and sunfish since May 29.

Resort men in the Brainerd Lake Region, notably George R. West of Birchdale and others claim this matter of opening the fishing season for these fish earlier in southern Minnesota than northern Minnesota shunted the tourist fishermen to the southern part of the state and kept many away from northern Minnesota until next Sunday.

However, the whole state of Minnesota started pike fishing on May 15 and a pike in many instances has more weight and substance than a string of crappies or sunfish.

RED BUS TOURS

THE DISPATCH notes with interest the inauguration of sightseeing bus tours by the Red Bus line. The sales convention of the Eagle Roller Mill company of New Ulm is being held on wheels this week. A short stop of a half hour was made in Brainerd yesterday.

The Dispatch hopes Mr. Zelle of the Red Bus line will not forget the merits of Brainerd as a resort center, within easy reach of 700 lakes and when future programs are made up we hope he will use his influence to have Brainerd made a night control or base for visiting the lake region.

That the bus companies are paying attention to Brainerd may be noted from the fact that Duluth bus company men are anticipating putting in a loop at Brainerd taking in the resort regions of the Brainerd lake region.

KELLOGG'S note to Mexico may be a necessary proceeding, but the average man in the street, not aware of the difficulties, seems to think the language and tone may be a little too abrupt.

BOUND FOR TOP OF THE WORLD TODAY

from the Pole. The flying base will be at Cape Hubbard, in Axel Heiburg Land, the "jumping-off" place on the border of the vast unexplored polar sea, nearly 200 miles west of Etah.

The two ships—the famous Bowdoin, an oil-burner built to resist the crushing of the ice-floes, and the Peary, a coal-burner, will leave the United States next Saturday, June 20, at Wiscasset, Me. The Peary is carrying one of the special Loening amphibian planes designed and built for this flight, set upon its deck, ready to hop into the water. The other plane of this type is crated in the hold, where a third plane for use in emergencies, also is stored. The seven navy flying experts, under Commander Richard E. Byrd, are on this ship. The scientists of the National Geographic Society, which are sponsoring the expedition with official governmental sanction, are on the Bowdoin.

From Wiscasset the ships will cruise eastward and then directly north along the coast of Nova Scotia to Sydney, thence north across the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Battle Harbor, in Labrador. Here MacMillan will purchase sleds, fur suits, dogs, and other equipment from the natives.

The expedition will follow along the coast of Labrador northward again to Hopedale, and then northeast to Julianehaab (Julian's Head), the old Norse settlements in South Greenland. The path of the Vikings to America was that which the expedition will re-trace.

Norse ruins near Julianehaab and others nearly 100 miles inland from Godthaab (God's Head), which is some distance north on the west coast of the tremendous island, will be explored. The inland settlement has never been adequately surveyed, and the journey from Godthaab by airplane will be the first flight of the expedition. Important evidence of the character and history of the Vikings is expected to be obtained on these journeys.

Then the ships will follow the west Greenland for between 700 and 800 miles directly north to Etah, where the ship base and radio station will be established. From Etah flights will be made over Greenland and Ellesmere Island, for exploration purposes.

Seek New Continent

Probably not until these preliminary flights have demonstrated the airworthiness of their equipment will the scientists and aviators embark toward their main objective—the exploration of the polar sea in search of the fabulous continent of the North.

From Etah north and west the airplanes, with picked, tested crews and equipment, will fly over Ellesmere Island, to the northwest tip of Axel Heiberg Island, where, on Cape Hubbard, they will establish their headquarters for three or more dashes into the last unexplored and most dangerous of the lands of the earth.

Here, at this "Cape Horn of the North," the explorers will start their flights of from 500 to 750 miles each, over the vast frozen wastes. Their companions will be white wolves, musk oxen and caribou. Conditions for flying are excellent during the summer. If the planes meet disaster, the searchers will be in a dangerous predicament, for the winters are terribly cold. One of the planes, however, probably will be kept at Etah for succor that may be required by the Cape Hubbard delegation.

After these flights have been completed—perhaps within a few weeks, if everything is carried out according to schedule—the entire party will reassemble at Etah and start southward again. The return trip will be made along the western shores of Baffin Bay instead of following the eastern shores as in the northward journey.

A stop will be made at Baffin Island, and extensive flights will be made over the unknown interior, probably from the ship base. The return from Baffin Island will be directly southward to Machvak Bay, Labrador, and down to the home port of Boston again.

Ten men make up the personnel of the Bowdoin, the "flag-ship" of the expedition. Besides MacMillan, there is included:

Ralph Robinson, chief assistant, Merrimac, Mass.

John Janes, chief engineer, Somerville, Mass.

O. D. Melkon, motion picture operator, South Weymouth, Mass.

John Rinartz, radio operator, South Manchester, Conn.

Benjamin H. Riggs, magnetician, U. S. Geodetician, Washington.

M. O. Williams, editorial staff, National Geodetic Society, Washington.

About 30 men are on the Peary, seven of whom are the naval aviators. The navy men are:

Lieutenant-Commander Richard E. Byrd, Bureau of Aeronautics, in charge; Lieutenant, junior grade, M. A. Schur, naval air station, Pensacola, Fla.; Chief Boatswain L. E. Reber, naval aircraft factory, Annapolis, Md.; and the following enlisted men: Aviation Pilot A. C. Nold, Anacostia air station, District of Columbia; Chief Aerographer Albert C. Francis, San Diego air station. All enlisted men except Francis are both pilots and mechanics.

Others on the Peary include: Capt. George Steele, Roxbury, Mass., Dean Publico, chief engineer, Somerville, Mass.; P. D. Davidson, second engineer, Portland, Me.; L. Hosner Freeman, mate, South Weymouth, Mass.; E. F. McDonald, Zenith Radio Company, Chicago, in charge of wireless; and a photographer, a physician and several other attaches.

In surveying the equipment of this expedition, the natural comparison is with the wooden ships the Vikings forced against the ice in the old centuries. The deckless, light boats were ill-fitted to fight the relentless ice-pack; they had no power except oars and crude sails; no charts, no sextant, no chronometer; not even a compass. The 1925 adventurers are in the Bowdoin, with watertight decks, white-oak timbers, sheated with ironwood and reinforced forward with steel sheathing. The ship has comfortable cabins, electrically lighted; she has charts, sextants, chronometers and spirit compasses corrected for deviation to the tenth of a point.

The airplanes will carry condensed supplies of food sufficient to keep their crew for many weeks in case of a forced landing. Condensed beef, barley and oats, a small ration of which is enough for sustenance, make up most of the provisions. Small tents and a rubber canoe also will be placed in each plane for emergencies.

The planes each have a carrying capacity of 2,200 pounds, including a pilot and an observer, camera and radio equipment and enough gasoline for a 1,000 mile flight. The maximum speed is 120 miles an hour, and altitudes of 14,000 feet have been reached in test flights.

Either skiis or wheels or pontoons can be used at will by the pilots in landing on snow and ice, the earth, or the sea. The engines are a radical departure from standard practice in that the power plant—a 400 horse power Liberty engine—is installed upside down. This enables a very compact arrangement with a minimum of wind resistance. The landing wheels fold back into the hull or pontoon of the ship by pressure of a lever in the pilot's seat. The hull is entirely covered with metal.

During the long "exploration flights" motion-picture cameras, operated by a small motor, will continually photograph the land or sea underneath, through a glass porthole in the bottom of the hull of the plane.

The radio experiment was first made from the Arctic two years ago by MacMillan, and his reports were heard in many parts of the nation. This time, however, "programs" are planned, a leading feature of which will be Eskimo music, which is probably the most primitive music in the world. The "music" is sung by two Eskimo men, in chorus, swaying their bodies and snapping their heads back, with an intonation and time-beat not unlike that of the tom-toms of Africa and the South Seas.

The land the fliers seek in the unknown Arctic will be claimed in the name of the United States if it is found to really exist. The planes will alight and place the Stars and Stripes on the earth and record as best they can the size and shape of the land, principally with their map-making airplane cameras.

The discovery of the fabulous island, which has been termed "Crocker Land" and "Harris Land," by explorers who deduced its existence, will be almost certain to lead to a controversy between Canada and the United States over its possession.

A Canadian order-in-council, issued in 1916, claimed all land north of that country. The 1,000,000 square miles to be explored by this expedition is located between the North Pole and Canada and Alaska. The mysterious land may be north of either or both countries.

If found by the MacMillan expedition, however, the United States probably will have a valid claim, as inetrnational law generally requires discovery or colonization, or both, for substantiation of sovereignty claims over new land.

The value of the hypothetical land is principally as a base for possbile military and commercial occident-to-the-orient airways of the future.

Major-General A. W. Greely, dean of living polar explorers, generally is credited with first advancing the "polar continent" theory. On the famous ill-fated exploration when 18 of the 25 members of his party starved to death at Cape Sabine, on Elesmere Island, in 1883, Greely observed peculiar flat-topped ice-bergs with wellmarked stratifications floating out of the Polar Sea.

Such icebergs come from relatively smooth land where the yearly layers of snow are not broken up, and as no such bergs have been found in Greenland or the known lands of the north, he advanced the theory that a flat, level island existed in the unknown area. Other experts, including Capt. Harris, a tidal authority, advanced the same opinion. Harris found the tides arrived at the outlets of the Polar Sea at periods six hours later than they would have if they followed an unobstructed course across the open sea. He calculated from this that the island was of tremendous size.

Peary in one of his trips observed from Cape Hubbard, Alex Heiberg Land, what appeared to be a level stretch of land to the westward. He reported the site, estimating that it lay 120 miles to the westward.

MacMillan on a later voyage started from the same point westward in an attempt to reach the land, which he also "saw." He drove across the ice westward 150 miles in a week, at the end of which the vision was as far away as it was at Cape Hubbard.

Some scientists believe MacMillan and Peary may have seen a mirage across the barren northland wastes. Others, including MacMillan, believe that it may have been a reflection of the faraway land in the sky, as is common in many desert countries.

"Lost" Land of North

Ellsmere Island, at the head of Baffin Bay, a "lost land" of the north will supply one of the most interesting surveys to the explorers. This long island was found by William Baffin, who was the first authentic polar explorer, in 1616. It was not "found" again until 1852 by white men. Various explorers found different peninsulas and bays independently, calling them by separate names, and it was until recently that its inclusiveness was discovered.

Ellesmere Island lacks 50 miles of being the northernmost known land, that distinction being held by Cape Morris Jessup, Greenland, a little to the east. The island includes what is known as "Grant Land," "Grinnell Land," "North Lincoln Land," "King Oscar Land," "Bear Cape Land," and "Jessup Land."

The northern point of the island, Cape Columbia, is famous as the starting point of Admiral Peary in his successful dash to the Pole in 1909. The island is 500 miles long and 300 miles wide at its point of greatest width. Its southern point is 2,000 miles north of the United States-Canada boundary.

Deep fiords extending far inland have enabled explorers to cross the island by boats, supplemented by dog-sled journeys of from 50 to 75 miles. Due to this, most of the knowledge of the land is of the coast and fiords.

Greely found meadows with grass and a profusion of wild-flowers and many herds of musk oxen which had never before beheld mankind.

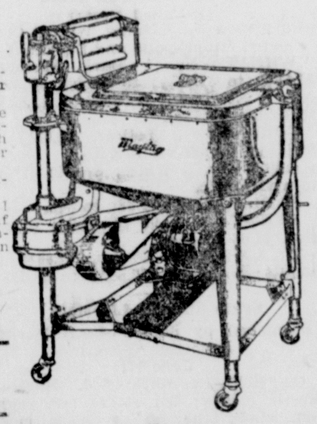

One of MacMillan's minor scientific objectives is the discovery of the breeding-ground of the Blue Goose, which he believes may be on Baffin Island.

Seek New Continent

Probably not until these preliminary flights have demonstrated the airworthiness of their equipment will the scientists and aviators embark toward their main objective—the exploration of the polar sea in search of the fabulous continent of the North.

From Etah north and west the airplanes, with picked, tested crews and equipment, will fly over Ellesmere Island, to the northwest tip of Axel Heiberg Island, where, on Cape Hubbard, they will establish their headquarters for three or more dashes into the last unexplored and most dangerous of the lands of the earth.

Here, at this "Cape Horn of the North," the explorers will start their flights of from 500 to 750 miles each, over the vast frozen wastes. Their companions will be white wolves, musk oxen and caribou. Conditions for flying are excellent during the summer. If the planes meet disaster, the searchers will be in a dangerous predicament, for the winters are terribly cold. One of the planes, however, probably will be kept at Etah for succor that may be required by the Cape Hubbard delegation.

After these flights have been completed—perhaps within a few weeks, if everything is carried out according to schedule—the entire party will reassemble at Etah and start southward again. The return trip will be made along the western shores of Baffin Bay instead of following the eastern shores as in the northward journey.

A stop will be made at Baffin Island, and extensive flights will be made over the unknown interior, probably from the ship base. The return from Baffin Island will be directly southward to Machvak Bay, Labrador, and down to the home port of Boston again.

Ten men make up the personnel of the Bowdoin, the "flag-ship" of the expedition. Besides MacMillan, there is included:

Ralph Robinson, chief assistant, Merrimac, Mass.

John Janes, chief engineer, Somerville, Mass.

O. D. Melkon, motion picture operator, South Weymouth, Mass.

John Rinartz, radio operator, South Manchester, Conn.

Benjamin H. Riggs, magnetician, U. S. Geodetician, Washington.

M. O. Williams, editorial staff, National Geodetic Society, Washington.

About 30 men are on the Peary, seven of whom are the naval aviators. The navy men are:

Lieutenant-Commander Richard E. Byrd, Bureau of Aeronautics, in charge; Lieutenant, junior grade, M. A. Schur, naval air station, Pensacola, Fla.; Chief Boatswain L. E. Reber, naval aircraft factory, Annapolis, Md.; and the following enlisted men: Aviation Pilot A. C. Nold, Anacostia air station, District of Columbia; Chief Aerographer Albert C. Francis, San Diego air station. All enlisted men except Francis are both pilots and mechanics.

Others on the Peary include: Capt. George Steele, Roxbury, Mass.; Dean Publico, chief engineer, Somerville, Mass.; P. D. Davidson, second engineer, Portland, Me.; L. Hosner Freeman, mate, South Weymouth, Mass.; E. F. McDonald, Zenith Radio Company, Chicago, in charge of wireless; and a photographer, a physician and several other attaches.

In surveying the equipment of this expedition, the natural comparison is with the wooden ships the Vikings forced against the ice in the old centuries. The deckless, light boats were ill-fitted to fight the relentless ice-pack; they had no power except oars and crude sails; no charts, no sextant, no chronometer; not even a compass. The 1925 adventurers are in the Bowdoin, with watertight decks, white-oak timbers, sheated with ironwood and reinforced forward with steel sheathing. The ship has comfortable cabins, electrically lighted; she has charts, sextants, chronometers and spirit compasses corrected for deviation to the tenth of a point.

The airplanes will carry condensed supplies of food sufficient to keep their crew for many weeks in case of a forced landing. Condensed beef, barley and oats, a small ration of which is enough for sustenance, make up most of the provisions. Small tents and a rubber canoe also will be placed in each plane for emergencies.

The planes each have a carrying capacity of 2,200 pounds, including a pilot and an observer, camera and radio equipment and enough gasoline for a 1,000 mile flight. The maximum speed is 120 miles an hour, and altitudes of 14,000 feet have been reached in test flights.

Either skiis or wheels or pontoons can be used at will by the pilots in landing on snow and ice, the earth, or the sea. The engines are a radical departure from standard practice in that the power plant—a 400 horse power Liberty engine—is installed upside down. This enables a very compact arrangement with a minimum of wind resistance. The landing wheels fold back into the hull or pontoon of the ship by pressure of a lever in the pilot's seat. The hull is entirely covered with metal.

During the long "exploration flights" motion-picture cameras, operated by a small motor, will continually photograph the land or sea underneath, through a glass porthole in the bottom of the hull of the plane.

The radio experiment was first made from the Arctic two years ago by MacMillan, and his reports were heard in many parts of the nation. This time, however, "programs" are planned, a leading feature of which will be Eskimo music, which is probably the most primitive music in the world. The "music" is sung by two Eskimo men, in chorus, swaying their bodies and snapping their heads back, with an intonation and time-beat not unlike that of the tom-toms of Africa and the South Seas.

The land the fliers seek in the unknown Arctic will be claimed in the name of the United States if it is found to really exist. The planes will alight and place the Stars and Stripes on the earth and record as best they can the size and shape of the land, principally with their map-making airplane cameras.

The discovery of the fabulous island, which has been termed "Crocker Land" and "Harris Land," by explorers who deduced its existence, will be almost certain to lead to a controversy between Canada and the United States over its possession.

A Canadian order-in-council, issued in 1916, claimed all land north of that country. The 1,000,000 square miles to be explored by this expedition is located between the North Pole and Canada and Alaska. The mysterious land may be north of either or both countries.

If found by the MacMillan expedition, however, the United States probably will have a valid claim, as inetrnational law generally requires discovery or colonization, or both, for substantiation of sovereignty claims over new land.

The value of the hypothetical land is principally as a base for possbile military and commercial occident-to-the-orient airways of the future.

Major-General A. W. Greely, dean of living polar explorers, generally is credited with first advancing the "polar continent" theory. On the famous ill-fated exploration when 18 of the 25 members of his party starved to death at Cape Sabine, on Elesmere Island, in 1883, Greely observed peculiar flat-topped ice-bergs with wellmarked stratifications floating out of the Polar Sea.

Such icebergs come from relatively smooth land where the yearly layers of snow are not broken up, and as no such bergs have been found in Greenland or the known lands of the north, he advanced the theory that a flat, level island existed in the unknown area. Other experts, including Capt. Harris, a tidal authority, advanced the same opinion. Harris found the tides arrived at the outlets of the Polar Sea at periods six hours later than they would have if they followed an unobstructed course across the open sea. He calculated from this that the island was of tremendous size.

Peary in one of his trips observed from Cape Hubbard, Alex Heiberg Land, what appeared to be a level stretch of land to the westward. He reported the site, estimating that it lay 120 miles to the westward.

MacMillan on a later voyage started from the same point westward in an attempt to reach the land, which he also "saw." He drove across the ice westward 150 miles in a week, at the end of which the vision was as far away as it was at Cape Hubbard.

Some scientists believe MacMillan and Peary may have seen a mirage across the barren northland wastes. Others, including MacMillan, believe that it may have been a reflection of the faraway land in the sky, as is common in many desert countries.

"Lost" Land of North

Ellsmere Island, at the head of Baffin Bay, a "lost land" of the north will supply one of the most interesting surveys to the explorers. This long island was found by William Baffin, who was the first authentic polar explorer, in 1616. It was not "found" again until 1852 by white men. Various explorers found different peninsulas and bays independently, calling them by separate names, and it was until recently that its inclusiveness was discovered.

Ellesmere Island lacks 50 miles of being the northernmost known land, that distinction being held by Cape Morris Jessup, Greenland, a little to the east. The island includes what is known as "Grant Land," "Grinnell Land," "North Lincoln Land," "King Oscar Land," "Bear Cape Land," and "Jessup Land."

The northern point of the island, Cape Columbia, is famous as the starting point of Admiral Peary in his successful dash to the Pole in 1909. The island is 500 miles long and 300 miles wide at its point of greatest width. Its southern point is 2,000 miles north of the United States-Canada boundary.

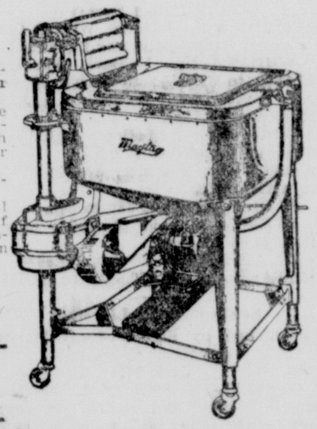

Deep fiords extending far inland have enabled explorers to cross the island by boats, supplemented by dog-sled journeys of from 50 to 75 miles. Due to this, most of the knowledge of the land is of the coast and fiords.

Greely found meadows with grass and a profusion of wild-flowers and many herds of musk oxen which had never before beheld mankind.

One of MacMillan's minor scientific objectives is the discovery of the breeding-ground of the Blue Goose, which he believes may be on Baffin Island.

JUPITER PLUVE SADLY MARS BALL GAMES

SEVERAL STARTS MADE IN CITY LEAGUE ARE DROWNED OUT

TWICE THE WORKMEN AND ELKS PLAYED TWO INNINGS

The city baseball league is still active, notwithstanding the disinclination of the weather man to serve up a suitable brand of climate. Every night that looks even slightly favorable finds the baseball players out on the field, ready to play. Several games have been started, and called only when the downpour became too heavy.

Twice the A. O. U. W. and the B. P. O. E. have played three innings, and then had to quit. Last night the game was started in a drizzle, played in relays, and finally called altogether. Twice before it was called for good, it had been halted to let a shower pass by.

When Jupiter Pluvius finally stops weeping and the grounds are dried out, baseball fans will again be treated to some good ball games

The rains of the last three weeks have forced so many postponements that the managers have determined to hold the entire remaining schedule over three weeks. The games originally scheduled for June 1st and following are made to start June 22nd. Three games were left over from the first part of the season, and the rest of this week will be used to play htem off.

The schedule for the rest of the first half of the season follows:

YALE DOWNS HARVARD TRACK MEN WITH EASE

New Haven, Conn., June 17. — Yale's habit of beating Harvard in athletics manifested itself again on Monday and a large commencement crowd sat in at the annual track and field meet of the schools to notice Yale's victory 79½ points to 55½.

Yale won nine firsts in 15 events and tied in the pole vault. Bayes Norton, Yale Olympic athlete, was the most luminous star of the day, winning 13 points. He won the 100 and the 220, and was second in the broad jump. Norton tied the record of 9 4-5 in the 100. Otherwise the records were not imperilled, for the athletes worked in an atmosphere suggesting laboring conditions at the mouth of a blast furnace and the heat undoubtedly took something from the performances of the specialists.

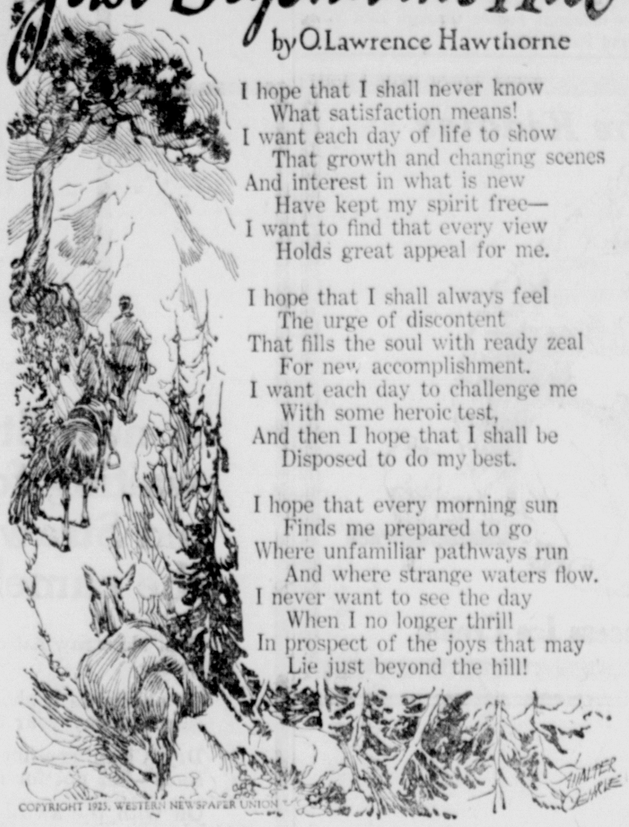

It was so hot in fact that Custcheon of Harvard went down and out just before the finish of the two-mile race and was carried off unconscious. He ran himself into exhaustion chasing Briggs of Yale, who was leading the field and was on Briggs' heels, going stride for stride with him, when he suddenly flopped to the cinders. In the excitement, Tibbets of Harvard rushed past Briggs to win the race in 9:42 1-5.

ST. CLOUD SEEKS NEW PITCHER

St. Cloud, Minn., June 17.—The management of the St. Cloud baseball team in the Central Minnesota Baseball league, is seeking a new pitcher, it was announced Monday, following the resignation of Joe Jaeger earlier in the day. Jaeger gave no reason for his resignation other than that he did not care to continue pitching here.

Just Beyond the Hill

by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

I hope that I shall never know
What satisfaction means!
I want each day of life to show
That growth and changing scenes
And interest in what is new
Have kept my spirit free—
I want to find that every view
Holds great appeal for me.

I hope that I shall always feel
The urge of discontent
That fills the soul with ready zeal
For new accomplishment.
I want each day to challenge me
With some heroic test,
And then I hope that I shall be Disposed to do my best.

I hope that every morning sun
Finds me prepared to go
Where unfamiliar pathways run
And where strange waters flow.
I never want to see the day
When I no longer thrill
In prospect of the joys that may
Lie just beyond the hill!

For Hot-Water Bottle

Pouring a little cold water in the hot-water bottle before putting boiling water in will prolong the life of the bottle, as the boiling water will burn it and it will not serve half the time. Also if there is any air in the bottle, you are apt to scald yourself by just pouring the hot water in. The cold water will prevent that.—Grit.

MINNESOTA BLACK BASS FACING EXTINCTION

Black bass will soon be extinct in Minnesota waters, unless some steps are taken to protect their natural breeding places, Dr. Thaddeus Surber, state superintendent of fish propagation, declares.

"Black bass are the most difficult fish to propagate artificially," Dr. Surber said. "The cost of artificial propagation is prohibitive. Experts declare that within 10 years, at the present rate of destruction by water pollution and other causes, this great species will be a thing of the past in Minnesota and nearby states."

The opening of the bass season should be set by the game and fish commission each year, Dr. Surber said, as bass do not always spawn at the same period, depanding on water temperatures. Pollution is one of the principal causes of destruction of the fish in the Mississippi river and its tributaries, while drainage projects in slough lakes and other areas destroy the natural breeding grounds.

BANKERS TO ARM 3,000 MEN IN WAR AGAINST BANDITS

ORGANIZATION TO BE COMPLETE WITHIN NEXT THREE MONTHS

ST. PAUL INSTITUTION TO SUFFER NO LOSS THROUGH MONDAY HOLDUP

St. Paul, June 17.—Organization of the Minnesota Rangers, country bankers joined for their mutual defense, will be perfected within three or four months.

Between 2,500 and 3,000 men will be armed by that time for their own defense against modern banditry.

This was assured by R. W. Lindeke, president of the Minnesota Bankers' association, after spending two weeks conducting a series of group meetings in the state.

Every group and every county unit of the association indorsed the idea of a vigilance organization as a means of protection against bank bandits, Mr. Lindeke said.

"Before the summer is over the Minnesota Rangers will have a definite organization in every country town of the state," he said. "Bankers and business men in every town will be armed with shotguns and rifles as a defense against holdup men who have terrorized banks and business concerns in the small communities.

"The plans call for an alarm system which has proved virtually infallible. When an alarm is sounded it means that these modern vigilantes will be ready to handle the bandits in much the same manner as the vigilantes of early mining days treated the highway desperadoes."

Mr. Lindeke, accompanied by Fred Fellows, secretary of the association, and Frank Delaney of the Merchants National bank, held nine group meetings during the past two weeks. They were preliminary to the state meeting which will be held in Duluth on July 7 and 8.

BRAINERD FISHING CLUB IN OUTING

Wonderful Time at Leech Lake Catching Pike, Charles Kinkele Serving as Chef

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Weather And All Conditions Just Right For One of Most Enjoyable times on Record

The Brainerd Fishing club held its annual outing on Leech lake, and the affair, viewed from every angle, was a most successful one. Those members were in attendance: M. Wentworth, John Carlson, G. Flaata, Dr. Weber, John A. Hoffbauer, A. P. Drogseth, A. C. Mraz, B. L. Lagerquist, W. J. Lyonais, Fremond Turcotte, C. Adams, Dr. M. Carlson, Henry I. Cohen, Dr. J. A. Thabes, W. R. Hiller, J. J. Fisher, J. P. Anderson, D. Hagberg, A. J. Ellison, A. M. Opsahl, A. J. Turcotte, Wm. V. Turcotte, Dr. O'Connor, Fred Swanson, Dr. Swanson, Mons Mahlum, Silas Zwight.

The guests were Frank C. Hall, Wm. Cossette, L. [illegible] Johnson, Elmer Forsberg, Clarence Forsberg, Joe Mraz, J. A. O'Connor, A. C. Ebert, Scotty Muir, T. J. Cutler and H. M. Robertson.

Total membership is limited to forty, as adopted by recent bylaws. At the election held these were named to hold office for the new term:

President—Mons Mahlum.
Vice President—A. M. Opsahl.
Custodian—John Carlson.
Secretary-Treasurer—Wm. V. Turcotte.

In accepting office, Mons Mahlum gave an excellent talk. Charles Kinkele, chef of the party, was given an ovation when he made a speech.

The day's festivities started around 5 o'clock in the morning when the company took the big boat and steamed out to Ottertail Point, towing on a large hawser all the necessary boats for the fishermen. Arriving at the point, Chef Kinkele had the breakfast prepared and the menu included bacon, toast, onions, radishes, hot coffee, cream, strawberries, etc. Then the company fished for pike and a percentage of the catch made up the pike dinner which was another luxuriant meal to please the most fastidious epicurean.

After dinner each boat fished for pike to take home. At the conclusion the guides "steaked" fish for those who desired their catch dressed in that manner. In 30 seconds the biggest pike is reduced to toothsome steaks.

The day was unmarred by a single obstacle. Weather, fishing, meals, bait, service of all kinds was unexcelled. Bill Turcotte was re-elected secretary-treasurer and he as well as Kinkele were given votes of thanks for their admirable discharge of onerous duties.

FIREMEN TRY OUT NEW LADDER

55 Foot Extension Ladder is Piece of New Equipment Added

TESTS ARE SATISFACTORY

Company of 8 or 9 Men Required to Handle the Ladder

The Brainerd Fire Department on Monday evening tried out its new ladder equipment using the city hall and Iron Exchange buildings for the tests.

The department has just recently been augmented by the addition of a 55-foot extension ladder of the latest design. This piece of equipment has been needed for some time. Heretofore the longest ladders the department boasted were not of sufficient length to reach the top of the higher buildings in the downtown district.

In the tests made on Monday evening the new ladder reached some five or six feet above the top of the Iron Exchange building, thus proving to the firemen that it would amply care for any needs if fires should occur in the business district.

The tests made were very satisfactory, and the department believes that with a few drills it will be able to handle the new ladder as rapidly as any of its old equipment. A company of eight or nine men will be required to handle the ladder at a fire, and these men will be well drilled in their new work at once.

For the present the ladder is being carried on the hook and ladder truck. It weighs about 300 pounds, is in two sections and finished in natural wood color.

Doctors Advocate Regular Tests By Doctors, Varying With Age of Persons

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, June 17. — "More could be accomplished in developing health, forestalling disease and providing for success in treatment of all the preventable and many of the non-preventable diseases if all persons at all ages were examined at intervals according to their age and condition, than by any other resources or device, applicable to conditions in this country at present."

This statement, made by Dr. Haven Emerson, New York City, before the National Tuberculosis Association, was the basis of a plea and plan for periodic health examinations for men, women and children of all ages being launched jointly by the American Medical Association, the National Tuberculosis Association and other health agencies.

Doctor Emerson's plan for periodic health examinations for all ages included the following:

For the expectant mother at least four medical observations between the fourth and eighth month of pregnancy, (preferably six) of which perhaps only one need be by a physician if reports can be obtained during the intervals by a visiting nurse.

At least 12 medical observations in the first two years of life, of which six in the first six months.

Six in the years 2-5 (one each 6 months) unless acute febrile infection or serious loss of weight demand more frequent examination.

Once a year from 6-25 unless acute febrile disease or loss of weight calls for additional examinations during the year.

Once every two years 25-45 unless there is a definite disturbance of weight either excess or loss, or albumin or sugar in the urine.

Once a year 46-65 unless overweight, high blood pressure, albumin or sugar in the urine is present in which case the examinations should be once every six months.

At 65, an examination every six months.

Operations in Disease

Surgery as an aid in the treatment of tuberculosis of the lungs was advocated by a group of physicians. Two operations known as thoracoplasty and artificial pneumothorax were described, by means of which the diseased lung of the patient is put at rest and healing of the affected part is hastened.

EAGLE ROLLER MILL PEOPLE IN TOWN

Officers and Sales Force of New Ulm Company Touring State

SHORT STOP IN BRAINERD

Also Took Side Trip to Breezy Point Lodge on Big Pelican Lake

Ninety people, including members of the sales force of the Eagle Roller Mill Co., New Ulm, with their wives, arrived in Brainerd at 3:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, thus covering the first section of their seven-day tour of Northern Minnesota.

Heading the party were H. L. Beecher, president and general manager of the milling company, and J. F. Armstrong, sales manager. They were met at the Ransford hotel by Mayor George A. Cain, and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Lions clubs.

The schedule of the tour called for a ten-minute stop in Brainerd, but this lengthened into half an hour as the officials of the company were shown about the business section of the city and visited the O'Brien Mercantile Company's store, which handles Daniel Webster flour, product of the Eagle Roller mills.

This is the second annual tour made by the milling company. Last year the sales force was taken to the twin cities, where they spent several days, combining business meetings with sightseeing trips about the two cities.

This year's tour is a decided innovation, said Mr. Beecher. On Monday an intensive sales meeting was held in New Ulm before the tour started, and similar meetings will be held during the trip which ends on Saturday. Three large chair-car buses have been chartered from the Red Bus Lines for carrying the ninety people through the agricultural, lake and mining districts of Minnesota. In the party are salesmen who represent the Eagle Roller Mill Company in all sections of the United States. Many have never been in Minnesota before, and are being given their first glimpse of this great state in this week's tour.

The party left Brainerd at 4:15 o'clock bound for Walker, which is to be the first night's control. A side trip was planned at Brainerd for Breezy Point. They were met by Superintendent Roberts and forming a long line they inspected the zoo, pavilion, new log hotel, trapshooting field, tennis courts, bowlig alleys, the huge new dining room, cottages, $15,000 cobblestone stairway, the deer and buffalo, the new power plant, etc. They were highly pleased with the courtesies shown them. Some seven families in the party had spent a week at Breezy Point Lodge last year.

Vice President—A. M. Opsahl.
Custodian—John Carlson.
Secretary-Treasurer—Wm. V. Turcotte.

In accepting office, Mons Mahlum gave an excellent talk. Charles Kinkele, chef of the party, was given an ovation when he made a speech.

The day's festivities started around 5 o'clock in the morning when the company took the big boat and steamed out to Ottertail Point, towing on a large hawser all the necessary boats for the fishermen. Arriving at the point, Chef Kinkele had the breakfast prepared and the menu included bacon, toast, onions, radishes, hot coffee, cream, strawberries, etc. Then the company fished for pike and a percentage of the catch made up the pike dinner which was another luxuriant meal to please the most fastidious epicurean.

After dinner each boat fished for pike to take home. At the conclusion the guides "steaked" fish for those who desired their catch dressed in that manner. In 30 seconds the biggest pike is reduced to toothsome steaks.

The day was unmarred by a single obstacle. Weather, fishing, meals, bait, service of all kinds was unexcelled. Bill Turcotte was re-elected secretary-treasurer and he as well as Kinkele were given votes of thanks for their admirable discharge of onerous duties.

FIREMEN TRY OUT NEW LADDER

55 Foot Extension Ladder is Piece of New Equipment Added

TESTS ARE SATISFACTORY

Company of 8 or 9 Men Required to Handle the Ladder

The Brainerd Fire Department on Monday evening tried out its new ladder equipment using the city hall and Iron Exchange buildings for the tests.

The department has just recently been augmented by the addition of a 55-foot extension ladder of the latest design. This piece of equipment has been needed for some time. Heretofore the longest ladders the department boasted were not of sufficient length to reach the top of the higher buildings in the downtown district.

In the tests made on Monday evening the new ladder reached some five or six feet above the top of the Iron Exchange building, thus proving to the firemen that it would amply care for any needs if fires should occur in the business district.

The tests made were very satisfactory, and the department believes that with a few drills it will be able to handle the new ladder as rapidly as any of its old equipment. A company of eight or nine men will be required to handle the ladder at a fire, and these men will be well drilled in their new work at once.

For the present the ladder is being carried on the hook and ladder truck. It weighs about 300 pounds, is in two sections and finished in natural wood color.

Doctors Advocate Regular Tests By Doctors, Varying With Age of Persons

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, June 17. — "More could be accomplished in developing health, forestalling disease and providing for success in treatment of all the preventable and many of the non-preventable diseases if all persons at all ages were examined at intervals according to their age and condition, than by any other resources or device, applicable to conditions in this country at present."

This statement, made by Dr. Haven Emerson, New York City, before the National Tuberculosis Association, was the basis of a plea and plan for periodic health examinations for men, women and children of all ages being launched jointly by the American Medical Association, the National Tuberculosis Association and other health agencies.

Doctor Emerson's plan for periodic health examinations for all ages included the following:

For the expectant mother at least four medical observations between the fourth and eighth month of pregnancy, (preferably six) of which perhaps only one need be by a physician if reports can be obtained during the intervals by a visiting nurse. At least 12 medical observations in the first two years of life, of which six in the first six months.

Six in the years 2-5 (one each 6 months) unless acute febrile infection or serious loss of weight demand more frequent examination.

Once a year from 6-25 unless acute febrile disease or loss of weight calls for additional examinations during the year.

Once every two years 25-45 unless there is a definite disturbance of weight either excess or loss, or albumin or sugar in the urine.

Once a year 46-65 unless overweight, high blood pressure, albumin or sugar in the urine is present in which case the examinations should be once every six months.

At 65, an examination every six months.

Operations in Disease

Surgery as an aid in the treatment of tuberculosis of the lungs was advocated by a group of physicians. Two operations known as thoracoplasty and artificial pneumothorax were described, by means of which the diseased lung of the patient is put at rest and healing of the affected part is hastened.

Lively's Ford repair department use only genuine Ford parts, sold at Ford prices. 98tf

EAGLE ROLLER MILL PEOPLE IN TOWN

Officers and Sales Force of New Ulm Company Touring State

SHORT STOP IN BRAINERD

Also Took Side Trip to Breezy Point Lodge on Big Pelican Lake

Ninety people, including members of the sales force of the Eagle Roller Mill Co., New Ulm, with their wives, arrived in Brainerd at 3:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, thus covering the first section of their seven-day tour of Northern Minnesota.

Heading the party were H. L. Beecher, president and general manager of the milling company, and J. F. Armstrong, sales manager. They were met at the Ransford hotel by Mayor George A. Cain, and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Lions clubs.

The schedule of the tour called for a ten-minute stop in Brainerd, but this lengthened into half an hour as the officials of the company were shown about the business section of the city and visited the O'Brien Mercantile Company's store, which handles Daniel Webster flour, product of the Eagle Roller mills.

This is the second annual tour made by the milling company. Last year the sales force was taken to the twin cities, where they spent several days, combining business meetings with sightseeing trips about the two cities.

This year's tour is a decided innovation, said Mr. Beecher. On Monday an intensive sales meeting was held in New Ulm before the tour started, and similar meetings will be held during the trip which ends on Saturday. Three large chair-car buses have been chartered from the Red Bus Lines for carrying the ninety people through the agricultural, lake and mining districts of Minnesota. In the party are salesmen who represent the Eagle Roller Mill Company in all sections of the United States. Many have never been in Minnesota before, and are being given their first glimpse of this great state in this week's tour.

The party left Brainerd at 4:15 o'clock bound for Walker, which is to be the first night's control. A side trip was planned at Brainerd for Breezy Point. They were met by Superintendent Roberts and forming a long line they inspected the zoo, pavilion, new log hotel, trapshooting field, tennis courts, bowlig alleys, the huge new dining room, cottages, $15,000 cobblestone stairway, the deer and buffalo, the new power plant, etc. They were highly pleased with the courtesies shown them. Some seven families in the party had spent a week at Breezy Point Lodge last year.

TUNNEY NEEDS MORE TO BEAT DEMPSEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, June 17.—Friends of Gene Tunney—and he has a tremendous personal following—are enthused over his chances of ascending to the heavyweight championship of the world. Tunney's knockout victory over Tom Gibbons, a boxer who had never been knocked off his feet before, elevated him to a place among the leading rivals of Jack Dempsey, but it is possible that too much is being made over the class shown by Tunney in that fight.

Tunney fought a cool, calculating fight against Gibbons and he flashed some very fine boxing, but he did not impress the critics with his punching. It is true that he knocked Gibbons out, but it was not the Gibbons who had stayed fifteen rounds with Dempsey. It was a Gibbons aged by two more years and a Gibbons that was exhausted from the heat and harried by worry over the condition of a wife on the point of death at home. Gibbons could have been pushed over by a lightweight in the twelfth round of that contest, as he was so completely exhausted that his legs collapsed under him and he couldn't lift his arms. He went out very much like Jess Willard did in the Firpo fight, although he made a much more gallant effort to get to his feet than Willard did.

zzTunney will have to get more steam in his punches if he is to beat Dempsey before the champion goes the way of Gibbons through age or inactivity, and he will have to punch harder if he is to beat Jimmy Slattery, Harry Wills, Paul Berlenbach, or some of the others who may dispute his claim for first crack at the championship.

Tunney has a few defects as a fighter and in the clever hands of Billy Gibson and George Engle these defects should be polished off by experience. Personally Tunney is one of the finest characters in the game. He has been a credit to boxing and success will not spoil him. He is a war veteran, who served with honor in France as a member of the Marines. He is a product of the down-town Irish settlement in New York, and if he should get to the top he would be one of the most popular of all the heavyweight champions.

After Gibbons had been knocked out, Eddie Kane, his manager, said—"If Tom had to go, I'm glad that it was Gene Tunney who beat him. He's a good, clean fighter and a fine fellow."

* * * * * * * * *

The defeat of the veteran Mike McTigue by young Paul Berlenbach, just a week before Gibbons fell, gave philosophers material for more sermons on the battle between age and youth. McTigue isn't as old as Gibbons, but he allowed his fighting machinery to rust through inactivity and rust is just as destructive on the constitution as years.

6—Clubs Must Fit.

Clubs should be fitted to the golf player with as much care as a suit of clothes is fitted by a tailor. An ill-fitting dress suit is no more out of place than an ill-fitting set of clubs. One might rent the dress suit and consequently be able to return it. An ill-fitting set of clubs is an absolute bar to material improvement in one's golf game.

The professional or golf supply store should be able to fit the player with the proper clubs. In the beginning—this is important—the prospective player will be properly advised to buy one club at a time, beginning with a mashie, or perhaps a putter. With the mashie as a measuring tape, it is possible to add exactly the right clubs as fast as they are needed. A difference of a half-inch in length of shaft or a half-ounce in weight is a very important matter in the choice of clubs; equally important with choosing clubs of the right lie to fit the player, or the right whippiness of shaft.

Time-honored procedure is that the first lessons are taken with the driver. Many professionals are breaking away from this idea, believing it is far easier for the beginner to learn the mechanics of the golf swing with a lofted club. The basis for this change is that the "carry" of the ball is far more important than the roll. There are no bunkers in the air. Almost at once the beginner with the mashie learns that the loft of the club takes care of the loft of the ball. This lesson never is learned by many players who began learning the golf swing with a driver.

There is an added handicap to the player who learns the golf swing with the driver. He learns to rely on the ball's being teed up and to believe that the lofted flight of the ball comes from hitting it just as the club turns upward in the forward swing. That idea is incorrect with regard to the driver and is wholly wrong with regard to iron club shots. With the wooden clubs, the head of the club should be skimming along parallel with the ground when the ball is hit. There being little or no loft on the driver face, it is necessary for the ball to be teed up in order that it be hit just back of or below the middle. The loft of the brassie and spoon account for the loft of the ball.

TUNNEY NEEDS MORE TO BEAT DEMPSEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, June 17.—Friends of Gene Tunney—and he has a tremendous personal following—are enthused over his chances of ascending to the heavyweight championship of the world. Tunney's knockout victory over Tom Gibbons, a boxer who had never been knocked off his feet before, elevated him to a place among the leading rivals of Jack Dempsey, but it is possible that too much is being made over the class shown by Tunney in that fight.

Tunney fought a cool, calculating fight against Gibbons and he flashed some very fine boxing, but he did not impress the critics with his punching. It is true that he knocked Gibbons out, but it was not the Gibbons who had stayed fifteen rounds with Dempsey. It was a Gibbons aged by two more years and a Gibbons that was exhausted from the heat and harried by worry over the condition of a wife on the point of death at home. Gibbons could have been pushed over by a lightweight in the twelfth round of that contest, as he was so completely exhausted that his legs collapsed under him and he couldn't lift his arms. He went out very much like Jess Willard did in the Firpo fight, although he made a much more gallant effort to get to his feet than Willard did.

zzTunney will have to get more steam in his punches if he is to beat Dempsey before the champion goes the way of Gibbons through age or inactivity, and he will have to punch harder if he is to beat Jimmy Slattery, Harry Wills, Paul Berlenbach, or some of the others who may dispute his claim for first crack at the championship.

Tunney has a few defects as a fighter and in the clever hands of Billy Gibson and George Engle these defects should be polished off by experience. Personally Tunney is one of the finest characters in the game. He has been a credit to boxing and success will not spoil him. He is a war veteran, who served with honor in France as a member of the Marines. He is a product of the down-town Irish settlement in New York, and if he should get to the top he would be one of the most popular of all the heavyweight champions.

After Gibbons had been knocked out, Eddie Kane, his manager, said—"If Tom had to go, I'm glad that it was Gene Tunney who beat him. He's a good, clean fighter and a fine fellow."

* * * * * * * * *

The defeat of the veteran Mike McTigue by young Paul Berlenbach, just a week before Gibbons fell, gave philosophers material for more sermons on the battle between age and youth. McTigue isn't as old as Gibbons, but he allowed his fighting machinery to rust through inactivity and rust is just as destructive on the constitution as years.

6—Clubs Must Fit.

Clubs should be fitted to the golf player with as much care as a suit of clothes is fitted by a tailor. An ill-fitting dress suit is no more out of place than an ill-fitting set of clubs. One might rent the dress suit and consequently be able to return it. An ill-fitting set of clubs is an absolute bar to material improvement in one's golf game.

The professional or golf supply store should be able to fit the player with the proper clubs. In the beginning—this is important—the prospective player will be properly advised to buy one club at a time, beginning with a mashie, or perhaps a putter. With the mashie as a measuring tape, it is possible to add exactly the right clubs as fast as they are needed. A difference of a half-inch in length of shaft or a half-ounce in weight is a very important matter in the choice of clubs; equally important with choosing clubs of the right lie to fit the player, or the right whippiness of shaft.

Time-honored procedure is that the first lessons are taken with the driver. Many professionals are breaking away from this idea, believing it is far easier for the beginner to learn the mechanics of the golf swing with a lofted club. The basis for this change is that the "carry" of the ball is far more important than the roll. There are no bunkers in the air. Almost at once the beginner with the mashie learns that the loft of the club takes care of the loft of the ball. This lesson never is learned by many players who began learning the golf swing with a driver.

There is an added handicap to the player who learns the golf swing with the driver. He learns to rely on the ball's being teed up and to believe that the lofted flight of the ball comes from hitting it just as the club turns upward in the forward swing. That idea is incorrect with regard to the driver and is wholly wrong with regard to iron club shots. With the wooden clubs, the head of the club should be skimming along parallel with the ground when the ball is hit. There being little or no loft on the driver face, it is necessary for the ball to be teed up in order that it be hit just back of or below the middle. The loft of the brassie and spoon account for the loft of the ball.
